Decoding/ word-reading
Devas	Bannerman		Porteous		Borton
80 – 120 words I can hear and say the initial sounds in words. I can segment sounds in simple words and blend them together. I can understand which letters represent some of the sounds. I can read my name. I can read labels in my environment. ELG Literacy; Word Reading: - Say a sound for each letter in the alphabet and at least 10 digraphs - Read words consistent with their phonic knowledge by sound-blending - Read aloud simple sentences and books that are consistent with their phonic knowledge, including some common exception words.	Year 1 300-600 words I can apply my phonic knowledge and skills for all 40+ phonemes. I can read accurately by blending sounds in unfamiliar words using the GPCs I know. I can read the common exception words for Year 1. I can read words of more than one syllables that contain the taught GPCs. I can read contractions and words containing a range of endings e.g. -es -er -ing. I can read aloud books accurately that are consistent with my phonics knowledge. I can re-read books to gain confidence with word reading and increase my reading stamina.	Year 2 850 – 1500 words I can continue to apply my phonic knowledge as the route to decode words until automatic decoding has become embedded and reading is accurate and fluent. I can recognise alternative sounds for graphemes, including words of two or more syllables which contain those graphemes. I can read many common exception words for Year 2. I can read most words without overt sounding and blending when those words have been frequently encountered. I can read aloud books closely matched to my improving phonics knowledge including more sophisticated text and challenging vocabulary.	Year 3 1500 – 2000 words I can apply my growing knowledge of root words, prefixes and suffixes. I can read aloud and understand the meaning of new root words they meet. I can read common exception words for Year 3. I can note the unusual correspondence between spelling and sound and where these occur in the word. I can decode most new words outside my spoken vocabulary. I can make a good approximation of the word's pronunciation.	Year 4 >2000 I can become more secure at decoding independently. I can become an independent, fluent and an enthusiastic reader.	Year 5 >2000 I can work out any unfamiliar words by applying my growing knowledge of root prefixes and suffixes. I can identify new vocabulary, both its meaning and correct pronunciation.	Year 6 >2000 I can apply my growing knowledge of root prefixes and suffixes (morphology and etymology), both to read aloud and to understand the meaning of new words that I come across. I can read a wide range of exception words, including the Y5 – 6 list and similar words which occur in the texts I read.

Response to Text

Devas	Bannerman		Porteous		Borton
40-60 months I can show pleasure in stories and being read to. I can show an enjoyment of sharing poems and rhymes together. I can sometimes look at a book out of choice. I can begin to have favourite texts which I ask for repeatedly. I can pick a favourite character or a favourite story. I can begin to say why I like a character/story. I can sometimes read a familiar text aloud to myself, remembering the words that I have heard. I can say how the pictures relate to the story. I can point to parts of the text in answer to question.	Year 1 I can listen to, share and discuss a wide range of high-quality books (poetry/picture books/stories/ information texts) which are beyond those they can read by myself. I can listen to new words in texts read aloud, which broaden my vocabulary. I can talk about words that I know or like. I can participate in discussions about the text, taking turns and listening to others. I can draw links between the text and some of my own experiences.	Year 2 I can develop my pleasure in reading by listening to, discussing and expressing views about a wide range of texts at a level beyond my independent reading ability. I can participate in discussions about texts that have been read to me and those that I read for myself, taking turns and listening to others. I can discuss the sequence of events in stories; retell these events orally, once the story has become familiar. I can talk about how different items of	Year 3 I can demonstrate positive attitudes to reading and understanding of what I have read, by listening to and discussing a wide range of fiction, poetry, plays, non-fiction and reference/text books. I can participate in discussion about texts, sometimes listening to others. I can increase my familiarity with texts including fairy stories, myths and legends. I can retell some of these orally and discuss words and phrases that capture my interest.	Year 4 I can display positive attitudes towards reading, by listening to and discussing wide range of fiction, poetry, plays, non-fiction and reference/text books. I can develop my familiarity with texts including myths and legends; and can retell some of these orally. I can show an increasing awareness of authorial choice and I can discuss words and phrases that capture my interest. I can identify how language, paragraph structure and layout contribute to meaning.	Year 5 I can extend my familiarity with texts to include modern fiction, fiction from our literary heritage and books from other cultures. I can participate in discussions, where I build on my own and other's ideas. I can maintain positive attitudes to reading texts structured in different ways for a range of purposes. I can make comparisons within and across texts during supported discussions.	Year 6 I can confidently, with familiarity participate in discussions about books that have been read to me and those that I have read independently, building in my own and others' ideas and challenging others' views courteously. I can discuss and evaluate how authors use language, talking readily about the effect of words and phrases on the reader. I can identify and talk about figurative language and its impact. I can distinguish between fact and opinion.
